

What is a 'commitment ceremony'?

A commitment ceremony is free from any conventions, rules, traditions, religion, culture, etc. and can completely be designed according to the wishes of the couple.

It is a secular ceremony. The 'commitment ceremony' does not have any legal or religious status or background. It is possible, though, to have a registrar involved and give the ceremony a legal status.

Why a 'commitment ceremony'?

There are many reasons why a 'commitment ceremony' could be of interest to you:

- ...Your civil wedding/partnership cannot take place on the requested date.
- ...The civil wedding/partnership ceremony is too short or too neutral for you.
- ...You do not want to get married in church, but you would love to have a big wedding ceremony.
- ...You would like to get married at a location, where it is not allowed to have a civil wedding.

...You would like to renew your vows and are looking for a romantic venue.

...You would like to 'have a new start' (after difficult times, separation, etc.) and would like to start anew with a special ceremony.

...You would like to have proceedings which are not possible neither at the registrar's office nor in church.

Exemplary proceedings of a 'commitment ceremony':

The following proceedings of our 'bonus package' are discussed and elaborated with you:

- Entrance
- Welcoming words of the speaker
- Text on love, relationship, happiness, etc.
- Personal/individual speeches or poems, stories, etc.
- Statement of intent
- Rings are handed over to the couple (a few words on the symbolism of the rings)
- Joining of hands
- Vows (couple or friends)
- 'Wedding question' to the bride and groom
- Exchange of rings
- Confirming the wedding
- Signing of the 'wedding certificate'
- Closing words of the speaker
- Procession

Our service

There are no “standard” ceremonies. We plan the proceedings of your personal ceremony together with you. No matter if you want to integrate your own rituals or want to involve your guests – it is YOUR ceremony and therefore (almost) everything is possible.

We have a transparent pricing system, which enables you to calculate everything down to every detail.

For example:

...basic package without long personal speech in Vienna

590 EUR*

...bonus package with long personal speech in Vienna

690 EUR*

incl. 20 % VAT
